Media Advisory: GCI SchoolAccess Helps Deliver ISTE to Remote Attendees

What: GCI SchoolAccess is working with the International Society for Technology in Education (ISTE) to provide Remote ISTE – a way for educational technology professionals to participate in a full day of the ISTE 2011 conference from the comfort of their home or office. The ISTE Annual Conference and Exposition has been a gathering place for educational technology professionals to experience the latest hardware, software and services and to learn about industry trends for the past 32 years.

Who: The 13,000 participants who attend ISTE each year include administrators, technology coordinators and library media professionals from around the world. Included in the attendee list this year are GCI SchoolAccess Director Pam Lloyd and Vice President of Broadband Services Craig Mollerstuen, who have been working with ISTE for seven years to develop and deploy Remote ISTE.

When: The ISTE 2011 conference is being held June 26-29.

Where: The ISTE 2011 conference is taking place at the Pennsylvania Convention Center in Philadelphia, Pa.

Website: Visit the ISTE 2011 conference website to learn more about Remote ISTE.
